A RECEPTION.

This morning Governor Fowle and staff and escorted them to a hotel, where a reception was hold, and Governor Lee was given a greeting which showed him he was as much at home in North Carolina as in Virginia.

He expressed his pleasure in greeting an audience of the pool of the good Old North State, and said he was here to show the great love the old mother Commonwealth has for her sister State, the people of both being sympathetic, homogeneous, and with the same aspirations and same destiny and bound together by such ties as make a dividing-line purely imaginary.

He alluded to his having married a relative of Governor Fowle and of the close personal similarity of the two Governors. He then went on to culogize the valor and virtue and love of liberty which characterize North Carolinians, and said in war and in peace these were illustrated. He declared the people of this State were right when they declined to ratify the Federal Constitution until proper safeguards to secure the rights of States had been secured. The people should control the Government and not the Government the people. As soon as ever it is admitted that a great central government is supreme the first footheld on liberty is lost.

THE BROWNSBURG TRAGEDY.

The Participants Taken Back to Lexing-

(Special telegram to the Otspatch.)

LEXINGTON, VA., December 5.—Sheriff R.

R. Witt and Deputy Sheriff E. L. Perry went to Lynchburg this morning and returned here to-night with James Miller, George Miller, William Miller, and John Recse, who were confined in the Lynchburg jail and indicted by the grand jury here on Tuesday last for the murder of Dr. and Mrs. Z. J. Walker in the Walker-Miller homicide at Brownsburg on the 8th of November. Thomas N. Williams, the well-known Lynchburg criminal lawyer, accompanied the prisoners here. The prisoners will be arraigned in the County Court to-morrow morning, when they will elect to be tried in the County Court or the Circuit Court. If they decide upon the County Court the trial will begin in January. If in the Circuit Court the trial cannot be called before March next. David Miller, one of the accused, indicted for the murder of Dr. Walker, cannot appear in court now. His condition is reported worse, and there is but little hope that he will ever recover from the wound received in the fight. So far as I can hear no counsel has been secured to defend the prisoners. The presence of Mr. Williams, of Lynchburg, is thought to be only for the arraignment to-morrow.

AN EXPLANATION.

CLINTON, N. C., December 5.—To-day will be marked with a white stone in the annals of Sampson county, for the Governors of Virginia and North Carolina met here at the Clinton Fair.

Governor Lee arrived very early this morning, accompanied by Brigadier-General Charles J. Andersen, Colonel B. O. James, Colonel C. O'B. Cowardin, and Major W. M. Cary.

Governor Fowle arrived last night, accompanied by Colonel Francis H. Cameron, Colonel Frederick A. Olds, Colonel Alstan Grimes, Capuain W. B. Grimes, his daughters, Mrs. D. B. Avera and Miss Helen Fowle, and Miss Eliza Skinner.

A BECEPTION.

AN EXPLINATION.

I attempted to say in my special published in the Dispatch of the 4th that if ever there did exist any danger of lynch-law in this case it was now past, as there was a strong sympathy being developed for Jim Miller to account of the half-crazed condition of his wife and little ones. I firmly believe but for the prompt removal of Jim Miller to Lynchburg that Walker's friends would have lynched him the very night of the day he was taken to Lynchburg. But now everything is quiet and the people seem reasonable and all fears of mob rule are past, it would seem. Very likely the prisoners will be kept here and not taken back to Lynchburg.

a greeting which showed him he was as much at home in North Carolina as in Virginia.

At noon a procession escorted the two Governors to the Fair-Grounds. The procession was composed of the marshals and officers of the fair, a band, Companies C and F, of the Second regiment, commanded by Captain W. L. Faison, and ex-Confederate veterans bearing a battle-flag which was brought from Appomattox.

On the arrival at the grounds a large andience greeted the Governors with hearty cheers and salutations.

H. E. Faison, president of the Fair Association, introduced Governor Fowle, who in a graceful speech bade Governor Lee welcome. Governor Fowle said that North Carolinans love next to their own State Virginia, and that whenever North Carolinans desire sympathy and support they always turn to Virginia. He alluded to Governor Lee's ancestry and heroism, and said he was a soldier, statesman, and patriot whom all people of North Carolina delight to honor.

THEFE CHEERS.

Three cheers were then given for Governor Lee, who came forward and made the working people to Commodore Brown in a set of complimentary resolutions.

A RECRETION.

Governor Lee then held a reception and shook hands with the veterans. He received a special invitation to visit will-mington and at 3 o'clock this afternoon left for that city, where he was given a royal reception this evening. He will leave there for Richmond at night. The people are delighted at his visit and charmed with him and the officers who accompanied him. Governor Fowle left for Raleigh this evening.

SEVERE PUNISHMENT INFLICTED UPON TWO TRAMPS FOR BURGLARY. A Negro Killed by a Train-Restored to the Ministry-Dropped Dead-

(Special telegram to the Dispatch.)

CHARLOTTE, N. C., December 5.—There was a sad drowning case in Alleghany county last Tuesday. Miss Ellen Oliver, a pretty, fearless, and very brave young woman, undertook to cross a creek which was considerably swollen. The young lady was alone in a buggy, and not being perfectly familiar with the stream drove the horse in the middle of the stream. The buggy began to fost and pulled the horse down. Then the buggy capsized, throwing Miss Oliver out, but she clung on to the buggy. Her cries soon brought people from along the creek. After some moments' hesitation a young man threw off his coat and vest and jumped into the creek and began swimming to rescue the poor girl, but before he reached her a heavy log floating down struck her, causing her to lose her hold on the buggy, and she was drowned.

Perhaps the most severe punishment ever meted out to tramps was imposed upon H. D. Wooding and Frederick Johnston, two white men arrested here some five weeks ago. They were captured in an attempt to plunder a railroad man's ledging-house and were tried for burglary. It was plain that they were only ordinary tramps and did not intend to commit burglary. The jury brought in a verdict of burglary. The jury brought in a verdict of burglary in the second degree, fixing their punishment at ten years in the penitentiary. Both are intelligent-looking white men, but decline to say where they are from. It is believed their names are merely assumed ones.

A negro named Zackery was run over and killed by a train on the Western North Carolina railroad last night near Black mountain. He was drunk and went to sleep on the track. The train passed over his neck and severed his head from his body.
